COVER: This large hydraulic dredge recovers sand and gravel from the Wisconsinan-age valley-train deposit in the background. Material is pumped in a slurry to a floating processing plant connected to the dredge. Products are then conveyed directly to barges for shipment to market (photo by J.M. Masters, August 1987).

INTRODUCTION

This directory lists the companies (other than oil and gas producers) involved in mining, processing, and manufacturing mineral products in Illinois. The maps (figs. 1-3) show the locations of non-fuel mineral resource extraction sites.

Since the last mineral producer directory was published in 1992, company information has been updated, new locations added and many closed locations eliminated. The use of location maps to show the distribution of extraction sites has been expanded.

Information about the listed operations has been gathered from the U.S. Bureau of Mines, now the U.S. Geological Survey; Illinois Manufacturer's Directory; Illinois Department of transportation (IDOT); Illinois Office of Mines and Minerals; Keystone Coal Industry Manual; Illinois Association of Aggregate Producers; and the staff of the Illinois State Geological Survey. We were unable to obtain the same level of information for all operations.

Detailed information on crude oil and natural gas producers in Illinois can be found in Tri-state Oil Men's Directory (Illinois, Indiana, Kentucky), published by the Illinois Oil and Gas Association, 13 Main St., Mount Vernon, IL 62864, and the Illinois State Geological Survey's Monthly Report of Oil and Gas Drilling in Illinois.

To facilitate locating Illinois mineral producers, the directory lists them alphabetically by county, company, and commodity.

The commodity list is organized first by commodity, then by county, and then by producers within each county. Throughout the commodity list, the three-digit number following the county name is the county number. Within the commodity list, the non-fuel extraction sites have three additional numbers that follow the county numbers and serve as state-wide unique identification numbers. These numbers are used in the listings for clay pits, construction sand and gravel pits, industrial sand quarries and pits, peat pits, cement plants, limestone and dolomite stone quarries (plus one sandstone quarry), underground stone mines, and tripoli quarries.

As stated above, the first three numbers are the county numbers, the fourth number identifies the type of extraction site as follows:

- 0 = sand and gravel pits,
- 1 = industrial sand quarries or pits,
- 2 = limestone and dolomite stone quarries and underground mines (plus one sandstone quarry),
- 6 = clay pits,
- 8 = peat pits,
- 9 = tripoli quarries.

The last two numbers identify the location of the pit or quarry within each county. For example:

The above numbering system was established by, and is maintained by, the Illinois Department of Transportation (IDOT) (Division of Highways, Bulletin 23, Sources and Producers of Aggregate for Highway Construction in Illinois, revised November 1, 1997), the Illinois Office of Mines and Minerals, and the Illinois State Geological Survey.

Because of the large number of relatively small extraction sites in Illinois, information in this report must be considered subject to change and frequent revision. Some sites are active only sporadically and operated with portable equipment.

The “rock units” line identifies geologic rock units mined in Illinois (table 1). It does not apply to mineral processing or manufacturing plants. Knowledge of which rock units are being extracted provides an indication of the variability of the material in the ground and the range of products that may be produced.

The “remarks” line gives the types of mineral products that may be available as well as other information. For coal mines, “remarks” is replaced by “mine types”. In the sand and gravel and stone sections, the “remarks” line gives the construction aggregate products that may be available (IDOT, Bulletin 23, 1997). For sand and gravel, this line contains a brief description of these products. If only “sand” or “sand and gravel” is given, then specific products other than pit run material that may be available are not known. For stone, this line may contain a series of letters, which refer to products (table 2) that may be available.

The terms “gravel” and “coarse aggregate” refer to materials that are too large to pass through a no. 4 mesh sieve (4.75-mm or 0.187-inch square openings). The terms “sand” and “fine aggregate” refer to materials that are small enough to pass through no. 4 mesh sieve but are too large to pass through a no. 200 mesh sieve (0.075-mm or 0.0029-inch square openings). Various coarse (CA) and fine (FA) construction aggregate products are defined according to their size in Standard Specifications for Road and Bridge Construction, IDOT (Springfield, Illinois), adopted October 1, 1983. This book defines four coarse and fine aggregate product groups according to their physical properties:

- Class A aggregate products are suitable for use in portland cement concrete(not all applications),
- Class B aggregate products are suitable for use in Class I interstate highway - quality bituminous concrete paving and base courses,
- Class C aggregate products are suitable for use in lower-quality bituminous concrete paving and base courses and seal and cover,
- Class D aggregate products are suitable for use in water-bound macadam surface materials, base courses, shoulder fill, and other low-grade uses.

Information on product availability at each site is intended to be representative of what may be available and does not guarantee what products are actually available or their quality.

Table 1 Stratigraphic units mined

Stratigraphic units are listed in order of increasing age. For the Quaternary System, the vertical listing of stratigraphic names may be misleading because several of these were probably deposited at the same time but in different places. For more information on these and other rock units that are not mined, refer to Handbook of Illinois Stratigraphy, Bulletin 95, Illinois State Geological Survey (1975).
